DOG DEFENDS GIRL

Woman Then Comes to Rescue of Her Niece.

ATTACKED IN A DARK HALL

Little Eleven-year-old Child Starts from Home to Buy Bread, and Is Seized Before She Is Out of the House—Pet Terrier Worries Assailant Until Assistance Comes.

New York, July 29.—A crowd of early-risers gathered about Paul J. Schmidt, on East Seventy-seventh street, this morning and threatened him with harm on the report that he had tried to drag a child into a cellar.

The girl said to have had the experience with the man was Catherine Kennedy, eleven years old, who lives with her aunt at 1473 Second avenue. She is small for her age, frail, and attends the East Seventy-ninth street public school. Her mother is dead. Patrick Kennedy, her father, is a machinist, and had gone to work this morning before the trouble occurred.

The machinist and his daughter live with Mrs. Mary Kennedy, the sister-in-law of the former.

Shortly after 7 o'clock this morning the aunt sent the girl out to the bakery. The girl was scarcely out of the room when Mrs. Kennedy heard her shouting: "Auntie! Auntie! Come, a man's got me!"

As the girl explained it afterward, she got down to the main hallway, when a man seized her and tried to carry her toward the door at the rear of the hall, leading into the cellar. The girl then screamed. Catherine has a pet fox terrier, that always accompanies her when she goes out on the streets.

The dog was with her to-day, and when she screamed the terrier caught the man by the trousers. The dog's attack disconcerted the man and he let go of the girl to kick the dog.

The girl ran to the stairs just as her aunt came running down. Mrs. Kennedy found a man hiding in a dark recess in the hallway. She seized him, and said afterward that he put his hand in his hip pocket and threatened to kill her unless she let him go. When he was later arrested it was found that he had a large knife in his hip pocket.

The woman held on, however, for a time and Margaret Birnbaum, the janitor's went to her assistance. The two of them tried to hold the man until a policeman arrived, but he broke away and ran up Seventy-seventh street, with the women in pursuit.

Two men passing stopped the fugitive and held him until Policemen Oliver and Lawlor took him into custody.

Prisoner Is Paul Schmidt.
The prisoner gave the name of Paul Schmidt and said he was a blacksmith. He has a room in the same house where the Kennedys live. He was taken to the Yorkville Police Court, where Magistrate House held him in $1,000 bail for trial.

Mary Marigliano, fourteen years old, who lives at 65 James street, appeared in the Tombs Police Court this morning as complainant against Caesar Ventourali, sixty-two years old, whom she charged with having attempted to coax her into a cellar at the corner of New Chambers and Oak streets last night.

The girl said that another girl of her own age, named Mary Marini, had been with her at the time.

When Ventourali spoke to her, Mary Marigliano said she became frightened and ran to the Oak street station and told the lieutenant at the desk what had happened. He sent Policeman Hunk with her. She pointed out Ventourali to the policeman, and Hunk placed him under arrest.

Ventourali pleaded his innocence in court this morning, but he was held by Magistrate Cornell in $5,000 bail for a further hearing, when Mary Marini will be present as a witness to corroborate Mary Marigliano's testimony.

Ventourali is a brushmaker, and lives at 9 Mulberry street.

then these provisions of the Constitution would become a dead letter, as there would be no means of enforcing them.

In his answer granting the petition Judge Pritchard stated:

"After a full and complete hearing of the matters raised by the pleading in the causes, injunctions, pending the hearing of the questions involved in the original suits, were granted. The court, in granting such injunctions, followed the course pursued by the Supreme Court of the United States in the cases of Smyth vs. Ames, Regan vs. Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, Cottling vs. Kansas Stock Yards Company, and Prout vs. Star, and by the Circuit Courts of the United States in numerous other cases.

"The effect of the order restraining the corporation commission of North Carolina and others was to preserve the rights of the parties until the master to whom this cause had been referred could have an opportunity to report the facts, and thereafter the court could determine whether the act in question is confiscatory, and in order to protect the traveling public the complainants were required to give ample bond and security to secure the payment into the registry of the court of a sum sufficient to pay the difference between the present rate and the proposed rate to those who might in the meantime purchase tickets.

"The defendant could have appeared in those cases. They filed an answer, and the causes were then and there referred to a master, in order that the evidence might be taken.

"State Rights Not Involved."

"It is unjust to say that the question of State rights is involved in this controversy. It is equally unjust to insist that what the court has done in the premises was an interference on the part of the Federal court with the State courts, however. On the other hand, there has been a manifest disposition on the part of the State officials to interfere with the Federal court in its procedure to do equal justice between the complainants and the defendants."

"When the motion for an interlocutory injunction was made in these causes, there was full argument before me by counsel representing the complainants and by counsel representing the defendants, the members of the corporation commission. On a subsequent occasion the assistant attorney general of North Carolina, this argument lasted over several days and covered all points at issue. Upon this argument and my consideration of the case I entered the interlocutory injunction. On a subsequent occasion the matter was again presented to me on the trial of a writ of habeas corpus. I then delivered a written opinion, which states my views of the law.

Has Not Changed Views.

"I feel no doubt as to the soundness of these views, nor as to the jurisdiction of this court, nor its right and duty to enter the interlocutory decree, nor, in order to discharge the jurisdiction of this court, to discharge on habeas corpus the persons who had been arrested by the State authorities for compliance with the orders of this court. As the defendants failed to appeal, that order of this court awarding the said interlocutory injunctions, nothing remained for this court to pursue the orderly consideration of the cases and meanwhile to protect its jurisdiction and its processes when action on its part was lawfully invoked.

"The court still considers that it would be its duty to continue this protection whenever its action on its part was lawfully invoked, but as the complainants for the protection of whose rights the interlocutory decrees were entered now move the court permission to surrender the protection of said order to the extent indicated in their respective petitions, there is nothing for the court to do except grant the permission prayed."

Yesterday the minister was called upon by a mob to arrest "Bud" Wyley, who had been arrested by the police and Robinson's house. A party of negroes gathered about the house and threats were made.
